Lieutenants at Wright Field, Dayton, Rush Into Burning Plane to Rescue Fliers Hurt in a Test Takeoff.

NAVY PLANE MISSING

Wrecked Land Plane Found in Chesapeake Bay Near Annapolis Harbor; No Trace of Crew.

Dayton, O., Oct. 30 (AP)—A new Boeing bomber fell at Wright Field today, injuring five men, two seriously.

The giant four-motored plane crashed on a takeoff and caught fire. Those hurt were:

Major P. P. Hill, chief of the firing division, injured seriously.

Lieut. Donald L. Putt, injured slightly.

Leslie Power, chief pilot of the Boeing Aircraft Company, injured seriously.

John Cutting, test observer, injured slightly.

Mark Koogler, Wright Field attaché, hurt slightly.

Wright Field officials said that lives of the plane occupants probably were saved by the heroic action of Lieutenants R. K. Giovannoli and L. F. Hartman.

The two men rushed inside the burning plane and carried out the five men.

An army board of inquiry immediately began an investigation.

Most seriously hurt was Major P. P. Hill, chief of the firing division. Others injured were Lieut. Donald L. Putt, Leslie Power, chief pilot of the Boeing Aircraft Company; John Cutting, test observer; and Mark Koogler, Wright Field employee.

The huge ship—105 feet in wing spread, and capable of 250 miles an hour speed under full five-ton load—roared into the air and had climbed about 100 feet when the two left motors cut out, witnesses said.

The big ship spun in the air and crashed in flames.

Plane at Annapolis
Annapolis, Md., Oct. 30 (AP)—A wrecked P-4B type navy land plane was found in Chesapeake Bay near the mouth of the Annapolis Harbor today and towed in by a Naval Academy crew. No trace of the pilot or any passenger was seen by the crew. The wreckage was sighted by the captain of a tugboat as a heavy fog over the bay lifted.

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—The Navy Department said today a plane which left Dover, Del., this forenoon for the proving grounds at Dahlgren, Va., was overdue.

The Navy Department ordered a thorough check to determine whether the plane overdue at the naval proving grounds at Dahlgren, Va., was the one found in Chesapeake Bay near Annapolis, Md.

The plane at Annapolis is of the same type as that overdue. Officials assumed it was the same. Pending a check the department refused information as to the identity of the pilot.

DUTCHESS BRANCH LINE TO BE DISCONTINUED

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad today to abandon 5.1 miles of road in Dutchess county, New York.

The line extends from near Plaine Station to near Shekomok.

The Commission said the company had shown that no passenger traffic was handled from 1930 to 1934 and also had shown freight decreases.

New Dollar Bill

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—The government will issue next month a new dollar bill designed by Secretary Norcross as "the handsomest ever." It will be a silver certificate and though the size will be the same as the present currency, there will be changes in design. For the first time on any American money, there will be printed a picture of both sides of the Great Seal, which was adopted in 1782 even before the constitution was drawn up. This seal will be on the back of the money.

Whitney to Aid Probe

Improving Water System

Many improvements have been made to Kingston's water system during the past two years under the administration of Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman. A survey of the water system developed the fact that there is a considerable amount of 4-inch iron mains throughout the system. These mains were among the first installed in the city's water system and are now unsatisfactory for fire flows, due to tuberculation and rusting with a considerable decrease in pressures.

To improve the water system work relief projects were prepared by the ERB in cooperation with the water board which has supplied the pipes, etc., and the old 4-inch mains have been taken up and replaced with 6-inch and 8-inch mains in Hunter street, East Chester street, Mary's avenue and West Chester street, Hudson street and on Linderman avenue.

Earlier in the year the local ERB received word not to submit any new projects as it was planned that the new WPA would begin to function the latter part of the summer, and that the WPA would take over the work that had been so successfully carried on by the ERB for the past two years.

In expectation that the WPA would actually function Mayor Heiselman several months ago filed with the state WPA projects totalling approximately a million and a half dollars. Included in the list of projects were many for the improvement of the water system.

While none of the projects have been rejected by the WPA neither have any funds been appropriated by the WPA to carry on the work.

Seven More Nations Enlist Today In Sanctions to Cripple Fascists

Commander 3rd Wins 96th Cambridgeshire, Man's Pal Runs Second

Newmarket, Eng., Oct. 30 (AP)—G. R. C. Foster's Commander 3rd today won the 96th running of the Cambridgeshire Stakes.

Mr. V. D. Sainsbury's Man's Pal was second and Lady Ralli's Finalist third.

Thirty horses ran.

The race, run over a course of a mile and one furlong, was for a purse of 1,000 pounds with extras. Some $6,000,000 in sweepstakes prizes hung upon the outcome of the race, a bulk of the winning tickets being held in the United States.

The winner, Commander III, was runner-up in the 1934 Cambridgeshire won by O. V. Watney's Wyndham.

Commander III won by a length and a half and rewarded his backers at 25 to 1. A short head divided Man's Pal, a 100 to 1 shot, and Finalist, one of the favorites at 6 to 1.

The two outstanding choices, Col. F. T. Halse's Pegasus, finished in the rack. So did Wyndham.

Commander III is a five-year-old bay son of McKinley-Comeria.

Discalms Knowledge

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—The American Liberty League disclaimed any knowledge today of published reports that members of its lawyers' committee had been cited to appear before the complaints and grievances committee of the American Bar Association for rendering uncollected opinions on New Deal legislation. Informed members of the Bar Association said the complaints and grievances committee meets at Columbus, Ohio, November 17, and would have the power to recommend expulsion of any member of the association and to start disbarment proceedings.

Increased Milk Profits

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP)—New York state dairymen received nearly $7,000,000 more for milk during the first nine months of 1935 than during the corresponding period a year ago. State Agriculture Commissioner Peter G. Ton Eyck reported today. Ton Eyck said receipts for dairymen totalled $76,502,000 for the period ended September 30, an increase of $4,845,000. The commissioner credited the increase to improved economic conditions, state milk control and the present milk advertising campaign.

Retirement Board

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt today named the railroad retirement board of three members with Murray W. Latimer, of New York, chairman. Latimer will represent the public on the board which will administer the new retirement act. James A. Bailey of New York was named representative of the employers, and Lee M. ### A. & P. Company Charged

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—Congress today authorized a "dummy" brokerage office for the purchase of stocks, in violation of the law, has been charged against the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company by the secretary of agriculture in an official stockholders suit.

Geneva, Oct. 30 (AP)—The League of Nations drive for an economic boycott of Italy, to cripple the Fascist war effort in Ethiopia, gained new strength today when seven additional countries pledged themselves to buy nothing from Italy.

These nations were Canada, Argentina, China, Cuba, Spain, Portugal and Venezuela. They agreed also not to export certain key products to Italy.

This brought the total "boycotting" countries from last night's figure of 29 to 36.

Thirty-six countries also have announced their readiness to apply financial sanctions, cutting off their credit to the warring Fascist nation.

Forty countries have accepted the arms embargo against Italy, Canada having been added to the list.

The project of mutual assistance, under which the states would undertake to help one another if any of their number were to suffer especially as a result of the boycott, also found additional adherents.

Nations subscribing to this program increased from 12 last night to 18 today.

A serious examination of new fundamentals for a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian war was expected to be made by Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare of Great Britain. Premier Pierre Laval of France and other leaders when they returned to Geneva tomorrow for the meeting of the League general staff for sanctions to set the date for enforcement of the economic boycott.

Geneva diplomats hear that Great Britain and France were working in close cooperation on a new plan which would fit into the peace project elaborated by the League of Nations committee of five for international development of Ethiopia—a proposal that was rejected originally by Mussolini.

November 15 was deemed generally to have the support of the majority of the delegations as the day for launching the economic blockade.

Italian Activity

By ANDRUE BERDING

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

Addis, Ethiopia, 9:45 p. m., Oct. 29.—Troops of the left and central columns of Italy's northern armies penetrated a short distance deeper into Ethiopia today and the high command expressed hope Mahale would fall without a battle.

Adhering to the policy of peaceful penetration on which Italy is basing its claim that the East African campaign is not a war but a crusade of "liberation" bands of native troops were sent forward in advance of the regular forces to win over the Ethiopian population to the Italian side.

Officers of the high command said that if this strategy succeeded, they expected to march into Mahale without experiencing the pitched battle which had been forecast during the last few days.

The forward movement of the regular troops was largely in the nature of a reconnaissance operation. Caravan parties arriving here from the west reported that the Ethiopian military strategy would be to attack the banks and center of the Italian advancing troops.

Two major Ethiopian chiefs, Ras Kassa and Degia Ayala, will carry the invaders' banner, three reports said, while Ras Seyoum, Ethiopian commander-in-chief on the southern front, will harass the invaders.

Considerable Ethiopian military activity was in progress south of Mahale and round Lake Annesa, persons arriving here by caravan reported.

Spending, Taxes Loom As Big Problem Likely To Decide '36 Campaign

New Deal May Die or Advance on Issue, Since Major Parties are in Conflict Over Statements Made.

TREASURY WRECK

Administration Critics Contend Spending Will Wreck Treasury, Taxes Will Be Unbearable.

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—In drafting the new federal budget, President Roosevelt has run squarely up against the problem which may develop into a leading 1936 campaign issue—New Deal spending and future taxation.

The issue is drawn in conflicting statements about whether new taxes will be necessary.

Republican orators recently have concentrated more and more, on the administration's spending policies. Many have already pointed them out as the prime issue for next year's election campaign.

Administration critics, including Republicans, some Democrats and the American Liberty League, have said that continued spending on the present scale will wreck the treasury or result in unbearable taxes for years to come.

In his recent budget summation, the chief executive said the budget was being prepared "with a view to sharply decreasing the spread between income and outgo." Denying what he characterized as "gloomy predictions" of higher taxes, the President said the government "will not need new taxes or increased rates in existing taxes to meet the expense of its necessary annual operations and to retire its public debt."

These two conflicting viewpoints are accompanied by sharply contrasting assertions.

The American Liberty League, which speaks of heavier tax burdens in the future, also contends that "taxes can be increased practically only by including smaller incomes which are now exempt" because "soaking the rich cannot pay the enormous expenses this administration is piling up."

On the other hand, treasury experts assert that the federal income is now virtually back to the post war level of $4,000,000,000 a year which permitted former Secretary Mellon to retire the debt at the rate of about $1,000,000,000 a year.

While closely guarding the official estimates of revenue for the next few years, treasury officials contend that existing tax rates may be expected to yield at least $5,500,000,000 in a year of normal business activity, and as high as $7,000,000,000 in an abnormal year such as 1928.

Even next year, treasury officials say they expect an income large enough to take care of a considerable relief program in addition to providing for the normal expenditures of the government.

The Liberty League concedes that existing taxes will soon provide sufficient revenue to finance all legitimate expenditures. Including necessary relief. "If unsound spending policies are abandoned."

Thus Woman Rewards Divorced Husband After Barber Shop Meeting.

Reading, Pa., Oct. 30 (AP)—Mrs. Lloyd L. Dickinson, 30, taking her 8-year-old son into a barber shop to have his hair cut, found the man with the scissors was the husband with the scissors she had divorced in Philadelphia several years ago.

They talked it over between ships, then he dropped business and both left with their son to get another marriage license.

Removal to Hyde Park

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt will head for Hyde Park tonight to remain until after next week's New York state elections. The President has always come home to vote, but this year he came home to vote earlier than usual because workers are still busy repairing the White House. Thus far, the renovations who began work weeks ago, have completed only three rooms.

Committee Says Not Enough Money Raised to Run County

The Flying Squadron Is On The Way

At the meeting held at the City Hall recently, a group of business men volunteered to raise the money needed for moving a new industry to Kingston. Every one says we need industries, we must have them. Other cities are offering all sorts of inducements. Here is an industry that we can have for the cost of moving—a few hundred dollars to be paid, not to the concern, but to the owners of the trucks who move them.

We have no Chamber of Commerce functioning, no fund we can draw on for these moving expenses, hence we must raise it by voluntary subscription.

Here are the names of the Flying Squadron:

Wm. O'Reilly, Treas.

Harry B. Walker
John K. Lencke

Noted Baptist Pastor, Native of Kingston, Is Dead in Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 30 (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Johnston Myers, for 40 years pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, is dead at 75 years of age.

Dr. Myers, a native of Kingston, was widely known for his work in the Baptist Church and for the "breadline" he established in connection with his pastorate here. He died yesterday after a long illness.

He was born December 14, 1859, and was graduated from the University of Rochester in 1882. He obtained his degree of Doctor of Divinity from the Rochester Theological Seminary in 1885.

His first pastorate was in Cincinnati, where he conducted services in the Ninth Street Church from 1885 to 1895.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mary Bousall Myers; a son, Robert B. Myers, Philadelphia, and two daughters, Mrs. Malcolm Hart, New York, and Mrs. Jerome Keith, Riverside, Conn.

The Rev. Dr. Myers was born at Lake Katrine and received his early education in old Kingston Academy and after graduation there he attended the University of Rochester.

At the completion of 40 years as pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church in Chicago the members of the congregation presented him with a purse of $4,000, or $100 for every year he had served that church as its pastor.

The Rev. Dr. Myers was widely known in this city and is survived also by two sisters, Mrs. William E. Myers of Fair street, and Mrs. E. B. Myers of Downs street, and three brothers, the Rev. Walter Myers of Boston, the Rev. Cortland Myers of Los Angeles, California, and E. B. Myers of Brooklyn.

To Decide The Issue

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—A controversy over the teaching of Communism in the capital's schools has stirred up so much angry feeling that high officials of the federal government may be called upon to decide the issue. The dispute, just now racing to a climax, had its origins in the last session of Congress. An amendment was attached to the District of Columbia's appropriation bill forbidding the teaching of Communism in the schools.

"Faker and Liar"

Fairfield, Me., Oct. 30 (AP)—Attorney General Clyde R. Chapman was continued today, he said, that Guy Cressy was a "federal faker and liar" and had nothing to do with the strangling of Annie K. Knicker, 12-year-old Fairfield girl. Cressy, 24-year-old wanderer, confessed attacking and killing the girl but when taken to the point near Fairfield where the body was found failed to point out the stump to which her body was tied.

Work "Kitty" Speculation

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—Two schools of thought are developing as to what President Roosevelt should do next January 30 when he must decide whether to continue the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, which he popularly calls the "Kitty." One view, held by a number of administration officials, is that both the stabilization fund and the presidential authority to make further reductions in the weight of the gold dollar should be maintained.

At Same Pace

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—Government income statistics indicated today that the farmer and the factory worker are coming out of the depression at about the same pace. The income statistics disclosed a close parallel between decreasing expenditures of the farmers and the factory workers. Both groups, the figures indicated, are better off today than they were a year ago.

Says County Auditor Had Money To Buy Postage Stamps for Absentee Ballots.

A balance in the County Auditor's account of $1,844.25; and $33,204.98 in the county treasury to run the county government during the remainder of the year, of which $20,000 will go to pay salaries, $10,000 to operate the county home at New Paltz and the county tuberculosis hospital, leaving less than $4,000 to meet all other expenses including a number of unitemized bills, was revealed today by the survey of the special committee of the Board of Supervisors, selected to investigate the county auditor's office and ascertain the financial condition of the county. The report is signed by Supervisors Clarence T. Voss and Van T. Pine.

County Auditor Ray LeFevre was asked in the report why with a balance of more than $1,000 he refused to pay postage bills to mail out absentee ballots.

The committee stated—"that the condition in which the county finds itself, of being unable to pay current bills, is caused by the fact that in the annual session of November, 1934, insufficient funds were raised to operate for the present fiscal year."

The committee further suggests that the only solution is the carrying of these charges until the board meets in November at which time the charges must be provided for in the next budget.

The letter of the special committee, the letter of Mr. LeFevre, the report of finances and the report of the county treasurer follow:

To the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, and to the County Treasurer of Ulster County:

The undersigned, members of the Special Committee of the Board of Supervisors, to investigate, examine and report as to purchases, expenditures and outstanding bills against the county, hereby respectfully report as follows:

First, that attached hereto and made a part of this report, is an itemized statement furnished this committee by Ray LeFevre, county auditor, giving details as to bills against the county for goods and materials which he ordered, amounting to the sum of $1

U. S. Marines Leave Imprint on History

By RICHARD RYLEE RHODES

Philadelphia, Pa. (Special)—Cradled in the colonies' fight for freedom in 1776, the United States Marines have marched down the long trail of action and adventure to leave behind them an imperishable record on the pages of world history.

Born amid the humble surroundings of Tun Tavern, a small waterfront hostelry in this city, on November 10, 1775, and numbering less than 300 officers and men, these colorful nephews of Uncle Sam have grown to be one of the important units of our country's defense.

Recruited 160 years ago, to man the fighting tops or furl a mainsail aboard our newly built men-of-war, today they embody the essential features of a "soldier and sailor too."

Small in numbers and mobile in movement they are ready at a moment's notice to man a battleship battery or pacify a native uprising. In those long ago colonial days they went into battle dressed for a fight or a frolic. Garbed in the conventional fighting attire of that era, colored long coats, tight fitting pants, high black leggings, buckled shoes, and topped off with a powdered wig and a fancy hat, the marines earned the respect of General Washington when they fought with his colonial troops at Trenton and Princeton, New Jersey.

It was during the period of fancy dressing that they won the well known cognomen "Leathernecks," due to the high leather stock they wore to protect their coats from an overly powdered or more often an overly floured wig.

The powdered wig went out with fancy hats and buckled shoes, but the word Leathernecks means United States Marines in any country of the world.

But let's turn back the dusty pages of American history and follow the marines down the corridors of time, from their first expedition to New Providence Island, in 1776, where they captured military supplies for General Washington's campaign against the British.

Since that historical foray on the Bahamas came some of the outstanding episodes in the history of our country which are epitomized in the Marines' Hymn by that stirring line, "We have fought in every clime and place where we could take a gun."

Under the fearless leadership of John Paul Jones the marines assisted in defeating the gallant ship Serapis in 1779. They crushed the Barbary pirates in 1805, fought in the War of 1812, campaigned against the Freebooters in the Caribbean in 1821, spilled their blood in the Florida swamps against the Seminoles in 1836, and stormed the heights at Chapultepec in our war with Mexico, to earn the line that opens their famous battle song. . . remember. . .

From the Halls of Montezuma. . . Throughout that classic verse of the Leathernecks are lines that recall many famous battles. When Commodore Perry opened up Japan to world commerce in 1854, the marines formed the honor guard, captured John Brown at Harper's Ferry, in 1859, took part in many battles of the Civil War and saw service against the fierce savages in Formosa in 1867. Fight followed fight and in 1871 the Leathernecks stormed the barrier forts at Korea, preserved order in Panama in 1895, were first to land at Cuba in 1898, won undying fame in the Boxer Rebellion, assisted in the capture of Vera Cruz in 1914, and inscribed their motto "Semper Parati" on the soil of France during the World War.

Steeped in the traditions which have made this nation one of the great powers of the world, Uncle Sam's soldiers of the sea follow the trail of Old Glory to the far corners of the world.

In neatly pressed khaki he sails the seven seas aboard our battleships and cruisers, wears breeches and boots as a "mountie" in far-off Peking, China, and goes ashore at a foreign port in his liberty blues. If it's a trip or a tiff you'll find these guardians of the peace playing their role in their characteristic manner, on land, sea or in the air.

Securely a knowing nation will forgive their pardonable boast when they sing, "Here's to you and to our corps which we are proud to serve," as they go marching down the closing days of this, their 160th birthday year.

More Woodlands Out of Pasture

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 30—More than 375,000 acres of farm woodland in New York state were taken out of pasture and allowed to develop into woodlots in the past five years, according to figures supplied by the U. S. Department of Commerce in a preliminary report of the federal farm census.

As a result of this, farms in the state are now listed with 2,061,284 acres of woodland not pastured, as compared with 1,684,793 acres in 1930. The total amount of woodland, including woodland pastured, is given at more than 4,000,000 acres for 1935.

The increase in the amount of woodland freed from grazing is most noticeable in counties where woodlot management has been a part of the Farm Bureau program for the past five years, says Professor J. A. Cope of the department of forestry, New York State College of Agriculture. Counties that show a large increase in stock-free woodlots are Genesee, Wyoming, Chenango, and Dutchess.

Over a period of years, according to Professor Cope, the production value of this woodland acreage freed from grazing would roughly approximate $200,000 a year. This increase results from the added growth made possible by the exclusion of stock.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 30—Eight New York State pens in the central egg laying test at Horseheads, and six New York pens in the western test at Stafford are included among the ten highest pens in each test at the end of the third week in the new year's competition.

Boyce poultry farm, Seaford, Delaware, made a perfect score with 70 eggs for the ten birds, or seven eggs for each bird in seven days. This is reported as the first time that a perfect score has been achieved at the tests.

Also, he says, the White Plymouth Rock pen from P. S. Davis of Conroy, N. H., made the highest score week at tests, with 64 eggs and 61 points.

Very Like a Tree

The set-up of the Bell System is simple in structure. It is very like a tree.

Its branches are the New York Telephone Company and 23 other associated operating companies, each organized to serve its separate area.

The trunk is the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, which coordinates all Bell System activities.

The roots are four in number: (1) The Bell Telephone Laboratories, devoted to scientific research for the betterment of telephone practice; (2) the Western Electric Company, which manufactures and purchases for the operating companies, at definite savings to them and to their subscribers; (3) the Long Lines Department, linking together the 24 operating companies in long distance service here and overseas; and (4) the Headquarters Staff of A. T. & T., which advises the operating companies on all phases of telephone operation.

This form of organization, with the inter-relationship of its parts, has been vital to the development of the fast, clear, low-cost telephone service this country enjoys today. New York Telephone Company.

Republican City Club on Thursday

The Republican City Club will hold a big rally Thursday evening in Modern Hall on Grand street to which the general public is invited. Women are especially urged to attend this meeting. Among the speakers of the evening will be Mayor Heiselman, Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk, Attorney Roger H. Loughran, Senator Wicks, Fred Stang and others.

The committee has arranged for entertainment during the evening and refreshments will be served. It is expected that the hall will be packed to its capacity that evening.

Republican Meeting At Jewish Center Largely Attended

Republican spirits rose to a new height last evening at a large rally attended by upwards of 350 men and women at the Jewish Community Center on lower Broadway when the audience heard several distinguished speakers present campaign issues to them. This meeting, which lasted nearly two hours, was not only well attended but the enthusiasm that greeted the speakers has not been paralleled at any previous gathering. So intense was the applause during many instances throughout the session that speakers were forced to wait until the deafening handclapping ceased before they were able to continue. Predictions were made that Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman would be returned to office with a majority between 1,200 and 1,500.

Mayor Heiselman, candidate for election, received a tremendous ovation from admirers and Philip Elting, veteran county chairman, remarked that for an off-year the campaign decidedly showed a return to Republican strength that wandered a short time ago which placed both national and state governing bodies under Democratic control.

Harold L. Van Deusen acted as toastmaster and his ever-ready wit delighted the audience as in between speeches he injected his humor which made somewhat of a contrast from discussion of the more serious issues that were presented. He announced at the outset that this meeting, as others, was open to the public and that Democrats as well as Republicans were welcome. Several persons identified as Democrats were in the audience.

Mr. Heiselman told something of the problems of co-ordinating the several groups of citizens in this city to achieve for them the greatest good to the greatest number and how during the past two trying years one false move on the part of city officials might have proved disastrous. In an effort to replace relief jobs with real work, the only solution to unemployment, the mayor told of activities conducted by the Kingston Industrial Committee and how factories, were, being brought into the city. That two were here and prospects for two more which combined would employ 750 persons were favorable. Contacts made slowly but surely during the past months were showing signs of results. Mr. Heiselman stressed, but advocated that these efforts would be wasted if a sudden change came about.

For relief, it was reminded that 107 projects had been submitted, 107 state officials involving $1,700,000 to give 1,400 men jobs for a whole year.

Warm of Handbills
Mr. Heiselman warned of possible handbills distributed at the last moment by the opposing party, and told of his repeated challenges to the candidate of the Citizens' Committee to discuss in public campaign issues. He asserted that the campaign by Republican members had been conducted on a high and clean level and that all meetings were open to the public and the press present. The Citizens' candidates have had plenty of opportunity since the September primaries to tell the people what they would do or to make open criticism of the present administration, but silence or secret meetings were their only weapons, and from this only one inference could be drawn, and that is that they are afraid of the people, and that is why they are ashamed to come out in the open.

When the Citizens Committee's candidate was city assessor, Mr. Heiselman stated, he raised property assessments of the city nearly a million and a quarter dollars, and was at that time, when 400 stormed city hall in protest, recalled to have remarked the only way to decrease taxes was to raise the assessments.

"If they were sincere," Heiselman pleaded, "they would have discussed issues long ago, so don't be fooled at the last minute with a lot of political ballyhoo."

Mayor Heiselman said that although he had never been elected mayor, twice he has had to assume the heavy duties of this office by reason of illness of two previous mayors. He has pinch-hit for Mayor Carey and was now pinch-hitting for Mayor Walker. He stated that if the people considered that his record entitled him now to be elected mayor in his own right, he would appreciate their support.

When Heiselman sat down his listeners responded with such a simultaneous burst of applause it was several moments before the toastmaster could be heard to introduce the next speaker.

H. H. Flemming Talks.
H. H. Flemming, candidate for justice of the supreme court in the Third judicial district, asserted that members of his party were showing large attendances at political meetings throughout the seven counties comprising this district and that it was most evident that a change from present domination of the party now in control of both state and nation was due because of this significant expression of people's interest. He charged that people were tired of experiments that were costly and unyielding and that alphabetical agencies had failed to fulfill promises of bringing back recovery.

Pointing out that payments on interest of the some thirty billion dollars borrowed by the federal government, Mr. Flemming stated that in his opinion it was impossible to spend one's way to prosperity; that an individual could not do it either, and that a nation could not do it either. "Industry will not start while confidence is lacking," he charged, and cited cases of other state elections as an index that a reverse to Roosevelt forces was a reality with reference to Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Connecticut. He predicted that the present working toward a change was preparation for the national election in 1936.

Urging all voters to look into the records of the four candidates for justices of the supreme court, of which two are to be chosen, Mr. Flemming lauded the 14 years of service by Judge Ellis B. Staley, who, as himself, had experienced 33 years in the trial courts of the state.

Mace Gerber, the next speaker, a former relief investigator, explained that he had been criticized by Democratic spokesmen for a previous address because he was associated with relief work. Mr. Gerber vindicated himself of this accusation by stating that for two months and a half he had not been associated with this work and on January 11, 1935, he formally gave up his position and has been connected with relief but a few weeks since.

"Sky the Limit."
Centering an attack on the "new" Deal, Mr. Gerber hurried the charge that deuces were wild and the sky was the limit in the vast spending program and generations yet unborn who had to pay these bills were not here to protest. In state finance he leveled his remarks on the executive budget as being out of balance and asserted that the Democratic legislature in passing "ripper" bills at the last session in Albany were taking orders from Postmaster General Farley, state and national Democratic chairman.

With respect to the board of supervisors, this speaker declared that each time Democratic control came into being chaos resulted. With regard to Mayor Heiselman, Mr. Gerber warned of a danger that would be brought about by any change at this time in city government and because Mr. Heiselman had so well administered affairs of Kingston it was imperative to continue him in office.

Andrew H. Ferguson, an officer of the Young Republican Club, spoke on state and city issues.

Schwenk Speaks on Record.
Candidate for Alderman-at-large, John Schwenk, briefly reviewed the city's record of the past two years and pledged continued performance if the present administration was returned to office for the next two years. "This government has been the servant of the people," he stated, "and it has followed the wishes of the people, and it will continue to do so."

Other Speakers.
Mr. Van Deusen called on the Rev. A. L. Hughes, state evangelist of the A. M. Episcopal Church, who has lived in Kingston for the past four years. He urged support of the Republican party on a straight ticket basis.

Ray Everett, city treasurer, in a brief address, declared the campaign to be a one-sided affair. He asserted that the Democratic party had a hard time getting candidates for this fall's ticket. Speaking of the county's record under Republican control Mr. Everett stated simply that bills had been paid, there was no debt, and the best interests of every man and woman had been represented. He urged support of every Republican candidate for supervisor and alderman to insure continuance of this splendid achievement proven so well in past years.

Elting Expresses Optimism.
"Of all the 32 campaigns that I have seen here there has never been the interest shown as in the one this year," Mr. Elting told the audience, "and this shows the interest getting ready for 1936." He spoke of the two-fold program Democratic groups unflinchingly followed every chance they had. "First, they spend all the money they can get and borrow, and secondly they cut the tax rate and pass the bills on to the next generation—and they are running true to form."

Of the state, Mr. Elting charged that each year a hundred million dollars more is spent than taken in, but this debt blanket is three-fold because it is the same in national and county governments.

Republican Assemblyman Vital.
Because Ulster county has the Ashokan Dam located within its boundaries it is of paramount importance to protect these interests, Mr. Elting pointed out, because this property gives a large tax yield to the county. The $20,000,000 reservoir is assessed at five millions, but once when Olive had Democratic assessors the value dropped to $400,000. Bill after bill is introduced at Albany to make possible exemption of this land owned by New York city, and if these should ever become law over $100,000 in taxes would be thrown upon county taxpayers from New York city and therefore, Mr. Elting stated, it is necessary to keep a Republican in Albany to protect this interest alone.

The boldness of one Democratic supervisor was cited when Tuttle McDowell, of Wawarsing, preferred charges against the county superintendent of highways, then acted as judge, and then acted as juror. Mr. Elting professed that this was a most extraordinary phenomena in jurisprudence unequalled anywhere in any state of the union and contrary to all legal customs of the United States.

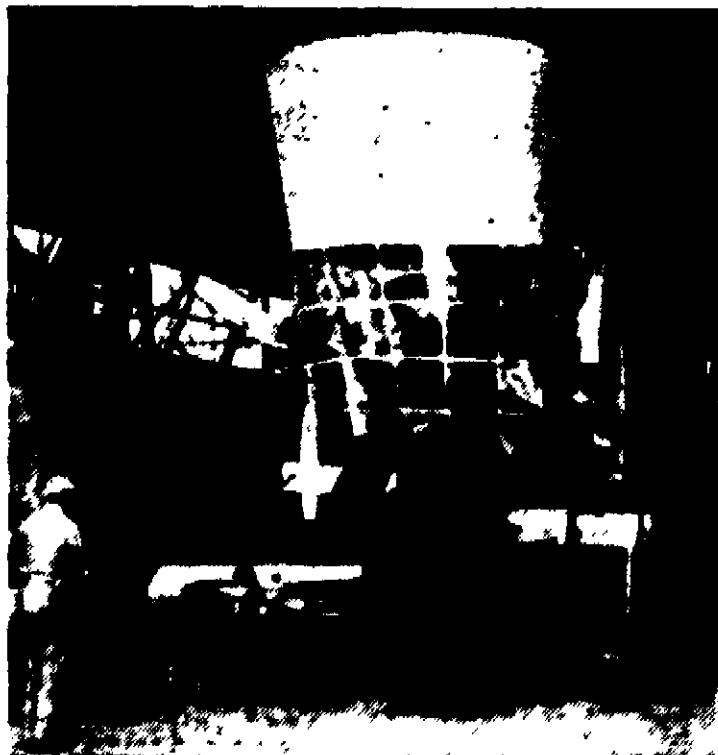

At the conclusion of this meeting refreshments were served. Another meeting of the Republican party is scheduled for Thursday night at Modern Hall.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP)—New

York state's gasoline tax yielded nearly $42,000,000 for the first eight months of 1935, only $2,000,000 less than last year's complete total, state tax Commissioner Mark Graves announced today.

The increased revenue was due in part to the boost in the tax from three to four cents a gallon, effective last April 1. The total quantity of gasoline consumed for the first eight months, however, was 1,053,328,022 gallons, an increase of 24,509,643 gallons over the same period last year, Commissioner Graves said.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP)—An investigation was started today into the drowning of Edwin A. Van Ingen, 30, in the water basin of the Ithaca filtration plant. Van Ingen's body was found last night after a search by William A. Rogers. The basin was being refilled after being cleaned and lagged, as part of his work as an operator at the station, was to keep a check on the rising water. It is believed that when he went to shut off the intake, he missed his step and fell in the water.

Red Cross Works To Prevent Accident

The American Red Cross has been engaged for two or three decades in an accident prevention program, a very definite part of which is the home and farm program. It has given instruction and training through numerous agencies, such as the Public Health Nursing Service and the First Aid to the Injured to thousands of youths and adults, and has endeavored to develop a safety consciousness among individuals.

Among the long lists of home hazards falls, except for traffic accidents, are the most frequent causes of injury. Falling down stairs, slipping on rugs and on wet or icy pavements are all preventable by the exercise of care. Burns are a common accident; children play with matches and get burned with overturned hot water. Kerosene and gasoline are carelessly used and handled. Much pain and often death is caused by suffocation and asphyxiation by illuminating and cooking gas in addition to the carbon monoxide gas produced by automobile engines operating in closed garages. Accidents with firearms are so often fatal yet preventable by the use of care and good habits. The most frequent causes of home fires are the careless use of matches and cigarettes by smokers, defective stoves and stove parts, defective gas and electrical appliances and the use of highly inflammable cleaning fluids and candles.

In farm areas there are special hazards due to the use of machinery which, if properly handled and guarded, could be eliminated to a large extent. This applies also to tools, knives and hammer, as well as farm animals.

The elimination of accidents involves an educational process and calls for direct application to daily living. The Red Cross joins with all interested individuals and organizations in an effort to reduce this toll of life, suffering and economic loss.

Further Crop Decline Noted

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 30—Further drops in the apple, potato and cabbage crops in New York state are noted by Dr. F. A. Harper of the department of agricultural economics at Cornell University.

October 1 estimates show declines of nearly a million bushels of apples, two million bushels of potatoes and ten thousand tons of cabbage, as compared with September 1 prospects, Dr. Harper says.

Latest estimates for three crops this year, as compared with the 1930-34 average harvest, are: Apples, this year, 15,625,000 bushels, past five years, 18,441,000 bushels; potatoes, this year, 23,000,000 bushels; past five years, 27,510,000 bushels; and cabbage, this year, 341,100 tons; past five years, 261,560 tons.

The decreases, according to Dr. Harper, amount to fifteen per cent for apples, sixteen per cent for potatoes and eight per cent for cabbage.

For the United States as a whole, his figures show that slightly more apples and potatoes are in prospect, but less cabbage than the average for the five years 1930-34.

To the Voters of the Third Judicial District of the State of New York

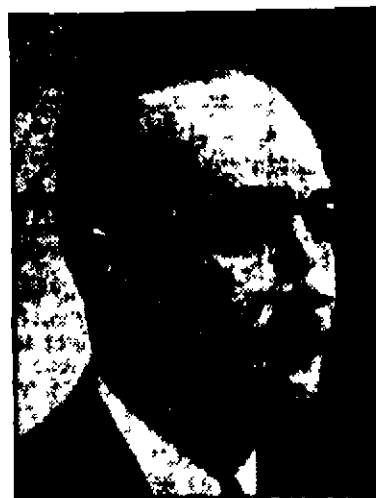

In the Third Judicial District of the State of New York two Justices of the Supreme Court will be chosen by the people on Election Day, November 5, 1935.

The Third District comprises the counties of Albany, Rensselaer, Columbia, Sullivan, Ulster, Schoharie and Greene.

The Democratic party has nominated for this high office the Hon. Harry E. Schirick, of Kingston, and Francis Bergan, of Albany. It is necessary that the people who are to select these judicial officers shall know the candidates intimately and well. Their background, their environment, the impelling forces that brought them to the top of the legal profession and made them the selection of one of the dominant political parties are important factors and have a proper place in the campaign for their election.

The Democratic party asks that you study these sketches of its candidates and give careful consideration to the salient facts therein.

Both these men have risen from comparatively humble circumstances. Both found it necessary and desirable, in satisfying their ambitions, to secure an education and training for their chosen profession, to earn their own way, and through the experience of hard and unrelenting work to prepare themselves for real success. They have earned this success and we believe have earned your full support for the high office of Justice of the Supreme Court.

Hon. HARRY E. SCHIRICK

HARRY E. SCHIRICK was born in Ruby, Ulster County June 15, 1890, the son of Eustace and Katherine Schirick.

At an early age he removed to the City of Kingston with his family and there attended the Bingham Grade School. Later, he attended the old Kingston Academy from which he was graduated in 1910. While in High School he distinguished himself as an athlete. His popularity with his fellow students can best be shown by the fact that he was chosen Captain of football, baseball and basketball. During the summer vacations he worked in the Brown Machine shops and Columbia shirt factory of Kingston, his savings from such labor helping to secure his education at Cornell University.

In 1910 he matriculated at Cornell and was graduated in 1914, with the degree of LL. B. Judge Schirick played on the Cornell baseball team for three years and was elected Captain in 1914. During his Junior and Senior years of college, he was elected to both the Junior and Senior honorary societies, a signal honor.

Upon graduation from Cornell, Judge Schirick entered the law offices of Judge Frederick Stephan, Jr., at Kingston. He was admitted to the Bar in 1915 and has practiced extensively since that time.

In 1917, Judge Schirick was elected Judge of the City Court of Kingston, by a majority of 328. The City Court is the first training ground for our Superior Courts. Known as "The Poor Man's Court," it is there the minor litigations are tried and there the humble citizen seeks justice. Human relationships and everyday life bring to its presiding justice a deep and abiding knowledge of human nature and the elements of our social system. With what diligence, industry and honesty Judge Schirick conducted himself in that office was demonstrated by the fact that in 1921, he was re-elected by a majority of 4482.

In 1925, Judge Schirick's private practice had reached such proportions that he was compelled to retire from the bench and he gave his entire time to his practice, with offices at 44 Main Street. He has ever been devoted to Kingston and the County of Ulster and has rendered distinguished services in their behalf.

In January, 1935 he was appointed Justice of the Supreme Court by Governor Herbert H. Lehman to succeed the Hon. John T. Loughran, who had been elected Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Judge Schirick entered upon his duties with the same industry which has characterized his efforts in other fields. He has held trial terms in six of the seven counties of the District. Reports of those terms ring with praise for the ability and conduct of Judge Schirick from both the legal fraternity and laymen.

Judge Schirick has conducted six trial terms and many special terms since he was appointed by Governor Lehman and has in no instance been reversed.

Judge Schirick is a member of the New York State Bar Association and the Ulster County Bar Association. He is also affiliated with the Masonic fraternity and with Kingston Lodge of Elks.

Hon. FRANCIS BERGAN

FRANCIS BERGAN is a native of Albany. He was seven years old when his father died and from the days of his elementary schooling has been working and studying to secure the education which prepared him for his splendid career in the law. Working in vacation periods and at odd hours enabled him to secure the funds which earned him through the New York State College for Teachers, where he specialized in Government and Economics, and later through Albany Law School from which he was graduated with the degree of LL. B. After graduation he continued special studies at State College, worked as a newspaper reporter assigned to the legislature, was trained in the drafting of laws and law making while an assistant to Maurice Bloch, minority leader of the Assembly, and gained practical experience for the higher offices he was later to fill.

Six years ago he was elected Justice of the City Court of Albany. During his term wide changes were made in the jurisdiction and procedure. Judge Bergan was active in bringing these about and drafted the text of the amendment which provided for the use of the general panel of jurors, doing away with the old wasteful system of calling in special juries.

In January, 1933, he was appointed Justice of the Police Court of Albany to fill an unexpired term and in the Fall was elected for a full term. His work as a police court magistrate has been outstanding. He has worked incessantly to improve the procedure, and has already won the approval of the great army of auto owners by an amendment to the law which took the stigma of criminality from the minor infractions of the traffic law.

Judge Bergan after exhaustive research has prepared a plan to eliminate from the Code of Criminal Procedure all of its conflicting, obscure and inconsistent provisions relating to the lower courts and to establish a simpler code of procedure. He has drafted a bill embodying these changes consolidating or abolishing approximately 300 sections of the Code. On September 21, 1935, the New York State Magistrates' Association unanimously approved the plan and it has received the unqualified endorsement of the leaders of the bar.

Thus, in a short period of five years, as justice in two of our lower courts, Judge Bergan has taken the leadership in improving the procedure to the end that the delays and technicalities of these courts, long recognized as obstacles in the path of prompt justice, shall no longer exist.

As a private practitioner Judge Bergan has made a distinct place for himself among the legal fraternity of the Capital District.

Judge Bergan is a member of the New York State Bar Association, the Albany County Bar Association, is an officer of Albany Lodge Elks, a director of the Albany Boys' Club, and a director of the University Club of Albany. He was married on April 23 of this year to Maud E. Whelden, of Greenwich, N. Y.

SHOOTS EX-JUDGE OVER SENTENCE

This young gunman, identified by Chicago police as Raymond Lamming, ran amok in a Loop office and shot three, two fatally, then turned the gun on himself. He is shown where he fell. One of those slain was William R. Fetzner, 52, former judge of the Chicago municipal court. A note in Lamming's pocket indicated he shot Fetzner for a "too severe" sentence once imposed on him. ## Human Periscope Used by Surgeons

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Editor

San Francisco, Oct. 30 (AP).—The human periscope, a new instrument for saving pain and risk in surgery, was exhibited before the American college of surgeons here today.

With the periscope a physician can look directly inside the body anywhere in the abdominal cavity, and see what is wrong. The instrument is a slender, hollow metal rod, the size of a water rod, more than a foot long.

Its tip carries a minute electric light, not much larger than a grain of wheat. At the opposite end is an eye piece.

This rod is inserted, lighted tip foremost, through a small, harmless and almost painless opening made in the abdominal wall.

Through the eye piece an internal field, between two and three inches in diameter, is visible. It is brilliantly lighted by the wheat grain light.

As he looks through the periscope, the physician holds in his hand a small atomizer bulb, attached to the periscope. By squeezing the bulb he pumps air inside the body.

The air pressure makes an open space for better vision throughout the field of the periscope. Actually the bulb furnishes a set of air fingers, which help to move the internal organs for detailed examination.

The organs readily examined by this method include stomach, kidneys, liver, gall bladder, peritoneum, omentum, ovaries and uterus.

The periscope was developed by John C. Ruddock, M. D., of Los Angeles.

Fleetwood Coach Lines, Inc., recently incorporated, will have its principal office in the city of Kingston. The corporation, according to the papers on file, is organized to operate bus lines between Oneonta and New York city and between Hudson and New York city.

Directors are Edward Littleman of 1319 Noble avenue, Bronx; Samuel Bushwick of 1420 Crotona avenue, Bronx; and Irving F. Krause of 121 West 72nd street, New York city.

A 'New' Sally O'Neil Returns To Screen For Third Try At The Hollywood Peaks

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Sometimes one picture makes a star, sometimes a single film will make two stars, but rarely does a picture make three.

Strictly speaking, "Sally, Irene and Mary," a silent of ten years ago, made no stars. But the picture is unusual in retrospect if for no other reason than that all of its titular trio made the grade. Constance Bennett went away, returned for talkies, and not until then did she make her golden splash in the cinema pool. Joan Crawford stayed on, but it was four years later that she became a star. And the "Mary" of the film, Sally O'Neil, has just returned to Hollywood. After some years of continued success, her star dimmed and she became an on-again, off-again attraction.

Her Second 'Visit'

Two years ago she returned to Hollywood from personal appearances and a trip abroad, and began a comeback. She thought then that "Hollywood has quit taking me for granted—just a kid that's always around." But still not much in roles came her way, and she left again.

(All this talk of years makes Sally sound at least 42—but she is 25. "Sally, Irene and Mary" was made when she was 15.)

Today, returned from more "personal" and stage experience in the east, Sally is not the same old Sally O'Neil. She is almost one of the "glamor girls." She has a new voice, pitched lower than it used to be, and more precisely articulated. That is no accident. She has been training it. And her long black eyelashes, her own, are longer than ever. If commenting on the new voice, you tactlessly suggest that there's a bit of the phony "broad A" therein, Sally laughs and meticulously corrects it. Vocal training is likely to do that to the nicest of young things from Bayonne, N. J.

No Audiences For Sally

The new voice got its first workout in the Columbia picture, "Too Tough to Kill," opposite Victor Jory and other assorted males. Sally was the only girl in the picture.

She hopes she will keep on making pictures now. She frankly doesn't like the stage. An audience—that's too many stage actors say they miss so desperately—gives Sally chills. She does not care how many people watch her work on a set. "That's what I'm used to, and I never get nervous in front of a camera, making a test or anything else. But audiences—"

"I did four shows a day, and when I was finished I felt as if I'd done a thousand. They can have their audiences—give me a movie set any time," she says.

At The Theatres

PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "O'Shaughnessy's Boy." Those who like sentiment on the screen of the tear dripping variety will find it in this co-starring vehicle of Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper. Reunited after the successful "The Champ," we find another story built to the measure of these two geniuses who portray man and boy love better than any other two actors in the business. The story concerns a circus man, a lion tamer to be exact, and his love and adoration for a boy who changes his whole life. Through misunderstanding, a minor tragedy occurs but all turns out in a combination of tears and laughter in the final moments of the play. Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper seem to enjoy their parts and live them with an enjoyable realism and along with the tearful scenes are to be found moments of hilarious comedy.

Orpheum: "Werewolf of London." For excitement, unbelievable, blood-curdling excitement, the first attraction at the Orpheum leaves little to be desired. Based on the belief that there is such a thing in the world as a werewolf, a combination of the worst parts of man and beast, the film goes on to show how a learned professor is bitten by one of the creatures in Tibet and how he returns to London and becomes a werewolf when the moon is full. He goes about the streets, a figure of evil, whining like a dog and doing wholesale murder because "the werewolf loves to kill." Henry Hull and Warner Oland are featured and Valerie Hobson, as the unfortunate wife of the stricken professor, leads a life of fear and terror. "Motive for Revenge" is the second full length attraction with Donald Cook. "Amateur Night" is offered on Wednesday night.

Kingston: "Here Comes the Band" and "Alias Bulldog Drummond." The opening show at the uptown theater swings into a musical comedy production in a new way for a couple of taxi drivers get a yen for big time extravaganza producers and before they are finished, a musical comedy is the outcome along with more confusion and bewilderment than the screen has shown in a long time. Essentially a comedy, the work of Ted Healy and Nat Pendleton is the standout part of the play, but Virginia Bruce, Spanky MacFarland, Ted Lewis and his band and Donald Cook also do excellent work in important assignments. "Alias Bulldog Drummond" is the other full length attraction, a melodrama of intrigue, violence and mystery with Fay Wray heading the cast.

Tomorrow

Broadway: Same.
Orpheum: Same.
Kingston: "Little Big Shot" and "The Girl Friend." Warner Brothers looked around for a competitor for Shirley Temple and found her in little Syd Jackson, who will warm your heart in the first film at the Kingston. She sings and gets along like a veteran in a story that tells of an orphan who is adopted by a Broadway sport and her performance makes a little plot seem almost effective. Edward Everett Horton, Robert Armstrong and Glenda Farrell are also in the cast. "The Girl Friend" tells of a down at the heel actor who goes to a hick town and poses as a great producer. It finally comes out that he puts on a play written by a local hick and the outcome is pretty much burlesque of a musical comedy. There are a couple of good songs and a fine cast that offers Roger Pryor, Jack Haley and Ann Southern.

Issue Of Liberal Party Leadership Turns British Eyes On Lloyd George

(Editor: This is the last of three daily stories on the background of the British political campaign.)

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN

London (AP)—The three liberal groups in parliament have been heading toward a bitter fight at the November 14 general election, the rifts in the party apparently being as wide as ever.

David Lloyd George, war-time premier and now a rabid new-dealer, is largely responsible for the rebirth of the war within the party for he is out once more to capture a party leadership.

Sir John Simon and Sir Herbert Samuel, chiefs of the main liberal groups in commons, are maneuvering both against each other and against Lloyd George.

Tariff Divides Party

Simon heads the wing which remained in the government through the liberal tangle over the tariff. He leads the "Simonites", and the group is represented in the cabinet by four ministers.

The "Samuelites" number 31, and form what is known as the real liberal opposition in the house. Samuel, then home secretary in the cabinet, led them out of the government in 1932 as a protest against the tariff, demanding a continuance of free trade.

Lloyd George Real Threat Samuel and his group have not been a particularly active opposition, their protests being mild in comparison to the labor opposition. Often Samuel has given strong support to the government.

Efforts have been made from time to time to woo Samuel back to the cabinet, but without result. There is always the possibility however that Samuel might throw his strength to the government if it appeared that labor had a chance of winning.

Leadership of the party is the big issue for liberals in the British general election campaign. The party is split three ways with factions headed by Sir John Simon (left), Sir Herbert Samuel (center) and the politically revivified David Lloyd George trying to outdo both of the others in the November 14 voting.

Lloyd George stands out as the big factor in the liberal ranks. His sudden ascent to new political prestige on his new deal proposals might endanger the positions of both other leaders.

What Lloyd George has been seeking is Samuel's backing, or at least the backing of a majority of Samuelites in parliament, for his program. He seemed less concerned with the Simon faction, regarding it as too firmly attached to the government.

Lloyd George also has been stumping the country, trying to build a personal following not only of liberals but of disgruntled government supporters and laborites. If he gets sufficient backing, he would regard himself as the real liberal leader.

Opposed to Agreement

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP)—The board of governors of the Mutual Dairy Cooperatives, Inc., was on record today as opposed to the seven-state federal milk marketing agreement. The mutual claims a membership of 25,000 dairymen. The proposed seven state agreement was drawn up to end milk "dumping" price chiseling in the metropolitan market. It was revised recently and submitted to dairymen for their approval. A committee appointed several weeks ago reported "30 specific violations" of the state milk control law by various state dairy groups. The committee was named primarily to check activities of the Dairymen's League Co-operative, Inc.

More than 1,000,000 hawks, 90,000 owls and 70,000 eagles have been killed by American sportsmen and farmers during the past twenty years, Warren F. Eaton, in charge of the Hawk and Owl Campaign, reported to the National Association of Audubon Societies at its thirty-first annual convention.

Supreme Court May Act Soon on Cotton Law

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—Toward a life or death verdict in the United States Supreme Court, the beleaguered Bankhead cotton act is moving with gathering speed.

Already having consented to review one case challenging the law on half a dozen major grounds, the court has directed the government to offer, by November 11, arguments why another and more far-reaching assault on the measure should not also be heard. There is a prospect that if the nine justices decide to open the door to the second suit—that brought by the state of Georgia through Governor Eugene Talmadge—both may be heard together in December.

What Act Is

The act, over which a legal storm for months has been brewing, represented the first effort in American history for federal government control of production of a major crop and upon it is based a law for the control of tobacco, another great "money crop."

The Bankhead measure empowers the secretary of agriculture to allocate to cotton growers, upon the basis of past yields, an allowed quota of production. He issues certificates representing this quota to each farmer, who may grow and sell that specified amount without the payment of any tax. Let him get above the quota, however, and a tax representing half the market value of the cotton is slapped on. Criminal penalties are authorized for handling uncertified cotton—a maximum fine of $1,000 and a six-months' jail sentence.

The first of the suits to reach the court, a challenge to the constitutionality of the measure made in the course of an action by Lee Moor, a Texas cotton grower, against the Texas and New Orleans railroad company, embodies most of the assertions made in the Talmadge action, but the latter covers broader constitutional ground and is regarded as affording a more direct test.

Suit's Claims

The Georgia suit comes directly to the court, whereas Moor's complaint went by way of U. S. district and circuit courts. On no less than eight constitutional grounds does Georgia attack the act.

The Moor case brought up the issue in a rather curious way. The railroad declined to ship Moor's cotton from Clint, Texas, because it did not bear the certificates. He sued for an injunction to force acceptance of the cotton. The processing tax, keystone of the AAA voluntary farm programs, is not at issue.

REGULAR GYM CLASSES HELD AT THE Y. M. C. A.

The Business Men and Senior classes of the Y. M. C. A. held their regular gym classes Tuesday evening at the "Y" gym.

The Business Men's class was attended by the Rev. J. T. Lee, Wm. Thompson, Henry Kresper, Harry Nickman, M. L. Winter, Tom Nolan, Dr. Jack Leber, Ralph Garney, Warren Smith, Clarence S. Schoenmaker, Dr. Saul Ritchie, Jack Johnson, and Physical Director Chuck Henke. The class spent their time in doing gymnastics and in the playing of volley ball. Mr. Ritchie and Dr. Leber also played basketball.

Fifteen attended the Senior class, these being Bill Locke, Al Flanagan, Nick Costello, James Fowler, Elsworth Haines, George Hines, Kim Fink, Pete Weiss, Jim Every, Jim Turck, Harold Decker, John Dittus, Twinkle Ridenbury, Ken Meyer, Ross Kantonakis, and Physical Director Chuck Henke. Among this group James Fowler, Pete Weiss, John Dittus and Ken Meyer were "hot" players. The group spent their time in playing basketball and touch football.

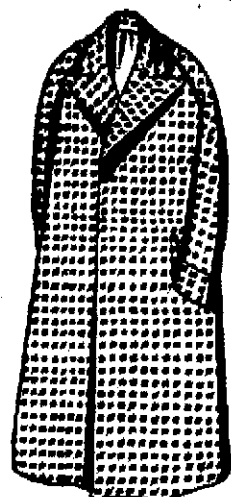

Avenues of Fashion with Esquire

Not for a moment would we consider anything concerning football more important than a couple of seats on the fifty yard line. But, closely following the question of just whom you're going to date for the game, is the matter of the kind of an outfit that can be depended upon to assure a completely satisfactory afternoon.

ROYAL RAIMENT

This English style coat is perfectly at home in this typically American scene. The bold checked pattern in a roomy raglan sleeved model is identical to the coat the Prince of Wales favors for spectator use.

FLATTERING HAT

The derby can be the most flattering of hats. The smart shape is slightly belled with just the right battish brim. Its sporting ancestry is assurance of its propriety.

CLOISTERED SHOES

Adopted from "what the well-dressed monks will wear" is this brown reversed calf monk front shoes. The socks are of wool for warmth. In a Scotch district check for smartness.

HORSEMEN KNOW

Like the derby hat, knitted string gloves are a distinct equestrian fashion. Their advantage, however, are no longer confined to horsemen, as their smart ruggedness is appreciated for every sort of glove use.

SUBSTITUTE

An alternate for the derby hat is the rough finished pork pie, particularly smart in a not too conspicuous green shade. The muffler, a cold day necessity, is smartly plaided in a typical clan tartan.

WIDESPREAD—LATERAL

STRIPE

The much favored wide-spread collar requires a lot more than the usual knot to fill the wider opening.

A knitted silk crochet tie does this job admirably. Colorful spaced cross stripes lend smartness.

TIES THAT SCORE

Always important to every outfit is the choice of neckwear. Deep toned repp stripes are effective with most all combinations. The Grosvenor motif spaced stripes on deep-colored repp provides an alternate choice.

Another thing hurting this country is the fact that a lot of people are turning up their noses when they ought to be turning up their sleeves for an honest day's work.

Susanne—Still at it? And I heard you say you were going to cut out smoking on your birthday. Robert—I was, but I found I had st enough coupons to get this perfectly good cigarette case.

Color is used more daringly every season by the leading decorators. Walls grow brilliant in tone to accent white furnishings in the city apartment. In sunny California, a well-known actress has a dull background for vivid furnishings.

If you plan to obtain Modernization credit insured by the Federal Housing Administration and re-locate your home this color scheme in Santa Monica may interest you. ## Ulster County Home Bureau Kitchen Tour Planned for Friday

The Kitchen Tour sponsored by the Ulster County Home Bureau for Friday, November 1, will organize on Hurley avenue, Kingston, opposite the Riccoboni Apartments at 9:30. From there they will go directly to Napanoch and make all stops on the return.

Homes will be open only at the time scheduled, since the hostesses, in most instances, will join the tour before and after their homes have been visited.

A detailed schedule will be prepared late in the week for publication in the local newspapers and to be distributed the morning of the tour.

For those who find it more convenient to go directly to Napanoch, it is planned to have cars numbered and schedules distributed at 10 a. m. on Eugene street, just off the Stovepipe Hollow road, Napanoch, as well as in Kingston. Miss Evelyn Nance is returning to Ulster county to attend to final arrangements for the tour.

Friday is the day for the whole family to see things of interest to them, a chance to get new ideas for kitchens at home. Fathers and brothers as well as mothers and daughters will help decide which things will be practical. They almost always do the construction work, and it is much easier to see things that have been worked out before attempting them ourselves.

None of the hostesses consider their kitchens "model". Both finished and unfinished kitchens are included. Those in the process are being improved to suit each particular family.

In these homes will be seen well planned and arranged cupboards, lighting devices which diffuse light, color which adequately reflects light, placing of equipment that makes for fewer steps and a great saving of energy; attractive containers for staples; convenient drawers for silver; cabinets built around the icebox; good storage closets; practical linoleum; curtains in good taste; convenient shelves; kitchen cabinet equipment installed in new cupboards, etc. In addition to kitchens, there is a workshop which will especially appeal to men and boys; so often tools are crowded away in the pantry or in the barn. This workshop would make every family happier.

The living rooms, satisfying to the eye in color, design and arrangement of furniture are comfortable places planned with each family's likes and dislikes in mind.

The usual treatment of a closet door and dressing table in a girl's room and the original shelf arrangement made by a boy for his room are sufficient excuse for wanting to see both.

Everyone will want to visit the school homemaker rooms that have been entirely done over by the students. In this building 4-H boys will give a demonstration on knife sharpening and soldering which no one will want to miss.

At present it is planned to visit the following homes in addition to the Sagerties High School: Mr. and Mrs. Mason Grant, the Rev. and Mrs. C. Morton Sciple and Mr. and Mrs. Devere E. Smith at Napanoch; Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Eppes, Accord; Mr. and Mrs. D. France, Marlborough; Mr. and Mrs. Ross K. Osterhout, Stone Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. Christian Decker, Flatbush, and Mrs. Rieck of Maiden. This list is subject to change.

All are asked to plan to come on Friday and bring a picnic lunch. Hot coffee and homemade ice cream will be sold at the Accord Church where a stop for lunch will be made.

KNOWING EVERY-DAY ETIQUETTE MAKES FOR POISE IN PUBLIC

GRACIOUS MANNERS ARE ALWAYS ADMIRABLE

Whenever you're in public, at the theatre, in a ballroom, dining in a restaurant or hotel, you're in the limelight. Everything you say and do is noticed by some one.

Even a visit to the movies is a test of good manners. Indeed, it's just as important to make a winning impression there as it would be at the first night of a new play, and just as many little puzzling matters of etiquette are likely to arise.

At the Theatre

Take the situation in our illustration. You've come to the theatre with a man, and in the lobby you meet another man you know. At once a question arises—should you introduce the two men? Of course if the second man had just greeted you in passing, you'd do nothing more than wave him a friendly "Hello" or smile pleasantly. But the man may stop, or the three of you may find yourselves waiting for the usher. Then what? Why, naturally, you'd introduce the men. "Mr. Richards, this is Mr. Lawson." Or, if you were with your husband, "Mr. Richards, this is my husband." (Never introduce your husband as "My So-and-So.") And the two men would shake hands.

What happens next depends on circumstances. A single girl accompanied by a man wouldn't be likely to invite a second man to join them after they reached the theatre, but a married woman, wishing to be courteous, might.

Going into the theatre, if the usher had taken your tickets and was leading the way, you'd precede your escort down the aisle. But if the ushers were busy, he would lead the way.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

While heavier woolen apparel for youngsters winter wardrobes is definitely English in design, styles for indoors or to wear beneath warm coats endorse the washable frock and suit for Jane and John.

Linen and pique are especially smart fabrics used to fashion these cute outfits, mostly in solid colors with white for contrast in collars and trimmings. Lavender, purple, old blue, marine blue, coffee brown, corn yellow and rosea green are popular shades, the darker colors being preferable for winter wear. Little brothers and sisters will dress in matching costumes, this idea continuing a strong favorite, dressing lots alike whether they be twins or not, as the sizes range from two to six years.

The little chap and his sister shown in the sketch above, are spic and span in middy blue pique with white applique pockets and band trimmings. Sister's frock has short, puffed sleeves with self cuffs and an inverted pleat down the front for skirt fullness. Both outfits feature white banding around the edge of collars and cuffs, also at each side front extending down to the tricky

Be Ready For Cold Wintry Days

Don't miss adding this set to your wardrobe—you'll always be delighted with your choice. This set is crocheted in waffle stitch—the hat is one that is becoming to everyone—the muff permits you to brave even the worst wintry blasts. The waffle stitch—it stands out beautifully—contrasts effectively with the plain crochet.

In pattern 5263 you will find complete instructions for making the set shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches needed, material requirements.

Jimmy Walker, Master Showman, Comes Home

Few public officials ever enjoyed such popularity as Jimmy Walker during his years as mayor of New York. That much of that popularity continues in certain circles is indicated by the shouts being raised along Broadway and in some political quarters over his homecoming. In the center is Jimmy as New York knew him at the top of that popularity. At left, he is seen on his fiftieth birthday in 1931, laying the cornerstone of the Queens General City Hospital. At right above he is seen inaugurating the 1929 baseball season at the Polo Grounds opener between Philadelphia and the Giants. Below is a recent picture of Walker and Mrs. Walker, the former actress, Betty Compton.

Mary Pickford Joins Hearst Tax Complaint

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 30 (AP).—The "California, here we go" movement of William Randolph Hearst had a recruit today in Mary Pickford, veteran movie star.

The actress, like Hearst, complained of California's income taxes. "The decision of Mr. Hearst to spend most of his time out of California because of excessive taxes here is a decision I will be forced to make unless our law-makers give me a chance to possess a small portion of my income for living expenses," declared Miss Pickford upon her return from a trip east.

Bemoaning the possibility that "I won't be able to live in my beloved California much longer," Miss Pickford said the property she owns in this state is "taxed to death already."

She predicted that others in the film industry would move, possibly to New York or New Jersey, and said financing of a shift in movie-making activities "could be easily arranged."

The wealthy publisher announced last week he intended to close his vast ranch home at San Simeon, Calif., before the end of the year and spend most of his time in New York.

Mrs. Thomas Edison Is Remarried Today

Chautauqua, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP).—Mrs. Nina Miller Edison, widow of Thomas Edison, the inventor, becomes the bride today of her childhood friend, Edward E. Hughes, retired steel man of Franklin, Pa.

The wedding plans called for a simple ceremony at noon in the former home of Mrs. Edison's father, Lewis Miller, on the shore of Chautauqua Lake where Mrs. Edison and Hughes played together as children.

Only members of the immediate families were invited to the ceremony. They included Mr. and Mrs. John E. Sloane, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edison and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Edison, all of Llewellyn Park, West Orange, N. J.; Mrs. Marion Oser of New York, a daughter of Mrs. Edison; Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Hughes of Pittsburgh. Hughes, who is 73, was born in Shippensburg, Pa., and was educated at Allegheny College and at the University of Michigan. He was admitted to the Pennsylvania bar in 1886. His first wife died four years ago. Mrs. Edison was the inventor's second wife, having married him in 1886, two years after the death of his first wife. Her father was Lewis Miller, one of the founders of the Chautauqua Institution, and she has been a regular visitor to Chautauqua for many years. The couple will travel for several months, and then make their home at Llewellyn Park, N. J.

In this Changing World—One Thing as yet Unchanged

EXPLANATORY NOTE.—The Associated Press not being profit-making, its Board of Directors has always held that funds of the organization should not be spent for advertising. Not in any manner meaning to question the Board's policy employees of The Associated Press, of which this newspaper is a member, feel that attention should be directed in certain crucial times to something that they believe affects not only the newspapers but the reading public. This advertisement is, therefore, printed by this Associated Press member paper in response to a request from employees of the organization to that the public may know.

The Associated Press is today the only exclusively newspaper press association in America.

A general definition of one that sells news to advertisers, bankers, brokers, government offices, as well as newspapers is "news agency". Europe has such news agencies. They were created to serve at profit others than newspapers. Later they served newspapers too.

In America the reverse is now true. Certain press services operated here for years exclusively for newspapers as The Associated Press still does. Thus they were properly termed "press associations". Having started services directly or indirectly to advertisers, United States government offices, radio stations, etc., those others are now properly defined as news agencies.

The change is regretted. There is something sentimental to an A.P. man about the "smell of printers' ink". There is a glow out of collecting and writing news for whatever use newspapers make of it. It would bring a strange feeling even in this changing world if the A.P. man's duty was to try, among other things, to obtain and deliver a good news story that would satisfy a United States government office client or an advertising client in the same way he wants his news reports to satisfy A.P. newspapers. The A.P. man may be wrong about this but he would have a strange feeling in undertaking it.

The president of The Associated Press, Mr. Noyes, in a message to the recent meeting of managing editors of Associated Press newspapers said:

"I invite you to note that a privately owned news gathering organization has, directly or indirectly, accepted as one customer a very large industrial corporation from which it will (through a broadcasting arrangement) be in receipt of large sums of money.

"I ask you to consider the peril that would confront you if The Associated Press was in relations to larger financial interests of any kind—banking, public utility, oil companies or any other large interests—that involved the receipt by your organization of large sums of money and made it (possibly unjustly) in the view of the general public subservient to these interests."

There are those who have always believed, and still believe, that The Associated Press, with its co-operative form of organization, controlled alone by the newspapers in its membership and financed alone by them, is the greatest bulwark of a free press that exists in America today. If the newspapers in its membership ever would fail in their support of it or if it now suffers to the point of injury by the competition of news agencies heavily financed by the patronage of United States government offices, advertisers and others than newspapers, it would be a sorry day not alone for the future of the newspapers but for all the people of this country.

The employees of The Associated Press serve but one interest—the newspaper, and through its member newspapers they serve the public interest.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The world's most important news service, the world's largest press association news service and larger than any news agency anywhere.

The only news service in America operated solely to serve newspapers.

Parent-Teacher Associations

Temple Emanuel P.T. A.

The P.T. A. of Temple Emanuel religious school held its monthly meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. A. Ronder, 55 Johnston avenue. An interesting business meeting was conducted, at which the ladies discussed the needs of the school.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. J. Rabin of the city. Her topic was "Educational Methods in the Progressive School." Mrs. Rabin formerly taught at the Walden School in New York city. She outlined the principles and methods pursued in the progressive school, stressing finer discipline rather than external regimentation and pointing out that self-expression and preparation for life is more important than were acquisition of formal information. "The modern educator emphasizes the need to adjust the child's philosophy and psychology to a social environment. Modern school stresses such education as will enable the child to live in a group. Modern education is becoming increasingly aware of the necessity of bringing the child to group life. The modern child must be gradually developed through the formative years so that at the high school age his interests are sufficiently widened to face life and society as a growing and inquiring personality with an increasingly adult point of view."

The talk elicited a great deal of discussion and the teachers and principal of the school determined to carry out some of the suggestions made.

Celtics Will Play Here Tonight; Locals Defeated By Atlantic City

The Kingston professional basketball team, having lost to Atlantic City there, Tuesday night, 24-17, 1 more anxious than ever to defeat the Celtics at the Municipal Auditorium here tonight in their last free lance game previous to the opening of the American League next week.

As the result of last night's skirmish with the Sand Snipers, Kingston is now on even footing with the team from the summer resort city. Last week in Kingston the Sand Snipers boxed to Kingston by the score of 22-23. Corky Stanton won for Kingston with a field in the extra period which was necessary to get the 21-all tie.

Stanton was not in the lineup against Atlantic City last night, neither was Mor Spahn. These two will be with Frank Morgenweck's club tonight against the Celtics which means that there will be a great improvement in the play. Three two with Frank Shimek and Carlie Husta make up one of the most formidable court combinations that could be mustered together. Jim Lennon or Bill Hamilton will jump center. Morgan has not announced which one will start.

Shimek was the star for Kingston at Atlantic City. He made seven points on two fields and three fouls. Next came Husta and "Horse" Meyers with four markers gleaned on two apiece from scrimmage. The Sand Snipers won last night by virtue of a rally in the second half. At the intermission the score was 12-11 with Kingston trailing by one point. Susman, Keating and Saunders were the big guns for the home club.

Morgenweck is very anxious about tonight's game. "We must win," he said, "to fortify ourselves for Saturday, the opening night of the American League." Saturday the Kingstonians will play at Philadelphia against the SPHAS. Sunday the Morgenweckers will match their strength against the Jewels at Brooklyn and next Wednesday oppose the Jersey Reds at the Municipal Auditorium for the opening of the American League in Kingston.

Tonight a large turnout of fans is expected at the Auditorium to see the Kingston club in action against the Celtics, one of the best quintets that ever tossed a ball. The Celtics always have drawn well in Kingston. Although they have been playing more than 10 years, and some of them like Pete Barry, 25, the Shamrocks are still good and have plenty of fight left in them.

Game Here Tonight
In the Celtic lineup tonight will be Dutch Dehnert, the originator of the pivot play; and Pete Barry, guards, Pat Herlihy, center, and Nat Hickey and Dave Hanks, forwards. Joe Lopchick will be here too to answer reserve call.

The probable starting lineup for Kingston is Stanton and Spahn, forwards, with "Horse" Meyers in reserve for this post. Lennon, center with Hamilton in reserve; Husta and Shimek, guards, with DeNublio ready for action if necessary. DeNublio was Corky Stanton's right hand man on the Schenectady team in the state league last season. Morgenweck foresees a future for him in the American. Bobby Cullum, Kingston boy, will be on the bench, too, ready for relief work.

Francis Kearns, one of the rookies who work out with the Morgenweckers, has been released and "Obadiah" Johnston is expected to be dropped soon.

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees made three homers last season off Schoolboy Rowe.

Brigham Young university's football team at Provo, Utah, has produced the unusual this season by starting an all-sophomore backfield in most of its games.

Yellow Jackets To Play The Astoria Professionals

Penn Fullback

Opponents of the Yellow Jackets next Sunday at the Kingston Fair Grounds will be the Astoria Professionals, football champions of Long Island for the years 1933 and 1934.

This club, which contains several collegiate stars, was booked Tuesday by Manager Charlie Raible, who wants only the best for the Wasps.

Raible made a special trip to Astoria yesterday to get the Pros. "I made sure in talking with Manager Johnny Meyer," said Raible, "that the Astoria team is the goods. From the statistics shown to me, this club should give the Jackets plenty of opposition. It has won four straight games this season and contemplates copping the championship of the island again this year."

In the lineup of the Astoria grid warriors are McCarthy, formerly of Catholic University, weight 204 pounds, who plays left tackle; Metlin, 180, fullback, ex-Colgate player; Ruppert, 170, left halfback, once a Navy player, and Fleming, 170, former Fordham gridders, who plays left end.

The rest of the lineup is made up of seasoned footballers, too, who are capable of going places on the gridiron. Having been organized for more than two years the championship club should shake up better than any of the eleven that have played here to date.

So far the Yellow Jackets have defeated the Newburgh Recreations, Jamaica Cardinals, Watervliet Garnets, Albany Lucky Strikes and Hudson A. C.

Unbeaten and Untied Teams Meet Saturday

New York, Oct. 30 (AP).—The ranks of 15 unbeaten and untied major college football eleven are certain to lose at least two members this week-end. Further depletion can be expected later when more than half of them get together for crucial games.

The list, by sections: East—Temple, Army, Dartmouth, New York University, Catholic University, Princeton and Syracuse; West—Minnesota, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Marquette and Iowa; South—North Carolina; Southwest—Southern Methodist, Baylor and Texas Christian; Far West—California and University of California at Los Angeles.

Saturday's pairings find Notre Dame matched against Ohio State in the standout game of the nation, and California against U. C. L. A. Only two of them at the most can retain their place in the race for national gridiron honors.

Among the survivors of the hurly-burly season, North Carolina appears to have the best chance of going through unscathed. The Tarheels meet North Carolina State's Wolfpack Saturday in what seems to be the climax game.

Dartmouth and Princeton collide November 23 at Palmer Stadium but before they come to grips the Indians and Tigers have some important business. Dartmouth engages Yale Saturday in another attempt to break the "bow" Princeton plays Navy this week, Harvard November 9, and closes November 30 against Yale.

Syracuse still has Colgate and Columbia to contend with; New York University's chief obstacle seems to be Fordham, and North Carolina State may prove to be Catholic University's stumbling block.

Mahoney Pushes Fight Against the Olympics

New York, Oct. 30 (AP).—Jeremiah T. Mahoney, national president of the Amateur Athletic Union, pushes his fight against American participation in the Berlin Olympics in the current issue of "Opinion," impugning the motives of Avery Brundage and Brigadier General Charles H. Sherill, who favor participation.

Brundage is president of the American Olympics committee, and General Sherill is a member of the International Olympic Committee. "We who for a lifetime have been on the inside of the athletic situation," Mahoney writes, "know what is in back of the game that is being played by the people who pretend to be impartial lovers of sports, but whose real purpose is shown very clearly by the things they have been saying through the press in the last few weeks."

"It is not an accident that Dr. Leonard (president of the German Olympic committee), General Sherill and Avery Brundage are saying practically the same thing. They are of one mind."

"They have one aim and that is to let nothing interfere with the Olympics in Berlin even though the rest of the world is convinced that it is a travesty upon sport to hold the Olympic games in a city that stands out before the whole world as having ended their play and sportsman-ship throughout all Germany."

"As for General Sherill's threat that unless the Jews shut up there will be a great anti-Semitic move in America, I think the American people can be trusted to take care of that, and if the American people are reasonable, honorable, fair-minded people, they will stop General Sherill's threat back at him and ask him what right he has, with his pretty production and editorial viewpoint, to speak in the name of the American people when he is so grossly mis-represented."

Here are three potent factors in the bid of Syracuse for eastern championship recognition—Vannie Albanese, hard charging fullback who scored three touchdowns in the recent tilt with Brown, and the guard co-captains, Jontos and Perrault, bulwarks of the line. (Associated Press Photos)

News Stories from Various Gridirons

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP).—Marty McDonough, star Colgate half back, last year, was in football tugs today for the first time since he suffered a broken leg in a baseball game last summer.

He now walks with a pronounced limp and is not expected to be able to play in the Tulane game at New Orleans Saturday. He took part in a light workout.

Cornell's Andy Kerr put the team through a scrimmage session, but refused to say what lineup he will start on Saturday.

The team will start its southern trip tomorrow. The itinerary has not been announced.

Changes in Cornell Lineup.
Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP).—Tackling practice was stressed on a wet field today by Coach Gil Doble as he prepared Cornell's Dragons for the Columbia game Saturday.

Lou Little's Lions were rated as heavy favorites but Doble made changes in his squad in the hope that the Cornellians will show more fight than they have demonstrated thus far this season.

Pete Marcus of New Orleans, 190-pound senior, who has been out for football all through his collegiate career, was promoted to left guard on the varsity, replacing Burdick Pierce, sophomore, who succeeded the injured Bill Borge.

Notre Dame Outweighed.
South Bend, Ind., Oct. 30 (AP).—Notre Dame's players already have had a taste of what they can expect in Saturday's clash with Ohio State. Since they will be outweighed ten pounds to the man, Line Coach Joe Boland devised a tricky defense against Buckeye running plays.

While the Irish were trying that yesterday, the scrubs worked Ohio lateral and forward passes for long gains.

Joe Didn't Look Ahead.
Pittsburgh, Oct. 30 (AP).—Joe Bach left himself in for some trouble when he arranged the Duquesne schedule last year so the Duke would have an open date before this season's game with Carnegie Tech. Joe's a Tech coach now.

A Night Game Tip.
Champaign, Ill., Oct. 30 (AP).—Here's a tip for a coach who has a night game. In a drill under the floodlights Illinois freshmen made some big games against the Varsity, especially on aerials. The reason was that, using a white football they were clad in white jersey and helmets and the regulars couldn't tell where the play was going.

Navy Trims New Fullback.
Annapolis, Md., Oct. 29 (AP).—Despite the strength Navy has shown so far this season, Coach Tom Hamilton is not through experimenting. He gave Fay Willage, a quarterback, a whirl at the fullback job yesterday and Willage obliged by tearing off several good runs.

40 Horses Ready.
Newmarket, England, Oct. 30 (AP).—Approximately 40 horses were ready today to plunge under the barrier in the Cambridgehire stake race. The horses competed for a $5,000 added purse, not high as horse race prizes go, but their flying head fortresses for the winners of lucky tickets in the Irish Hospital overtake, in which more than $5,000,000 will be divided.

Expert Bowlers Will Compete For Prizes Totaling $100,000
Indianapolis (AP).—Expert bowlers of the nation, looking months ahead, are getting in condition for the annual American Bowling Congress to be held here March 10 to April 12.

Thirty-two brand new alleys, on which a ball server has been rolled, await the players who will compete for a purse totaling approximately $100,000.

Paid Grounds Bowling.
The alleys will be set up at the Coliseum in the state fair grounds here. Two additional ballfields will be used for A. C. bowlers, convention and instruction rooms. First prize for the 3-man team having the best total score for three

SPORT SLANTS

by Pap

Perhaps some of the games yet to be played will yield an explanation for that 34 to 0 drubbing Pennsylvania handed Columbia. Did Coach Harvey Harman's crew suddenly find itself and make good the promise it showed in early season workouts or has Columbia fallen to a new low in the Lou Little regime?

This Pennsylvania team is truly a puzzle. It collapsed completely in the second half against Yale after coming back from the rest period with a 20 to 12 lead to repeat its second-half failure against Princeton.

After the Yale game the Pennsylvania regulars dragged their weary bones back into the dressing room and into the showers. They were a tired looking bunch of athletes.

Maybe Stale
One wonders what sort of miracle Coach Harman performed in the seven days that followed. The team did absolutely no hard work. Practice sessions when they were resumed about mid-week amounted to little more than signal drills and dummy scrimmages. Not one speck of hard conditioning work was done.

And yet the team that raced out on the gridiron to face Columbia was brimful of fire and energy. They started with the opening whistle and knocked over everything in sight.

The line brushed the Columbia forwards aside to open huge holes for the tireless backs. Even when the Columbia tacklers contacted their man, the Red and Blue ball carrier kept right on plowing toward his objective.

There was no let-up when play was resumed after half-time. The Pennsylvania attack seemed to gain momentum as the game progressed. Even when Harman cleared the bench of substitutes there was no let-up on the part of the Quakers.

It is comparatively easy to understand a complete change in spirit but it is difficult to account for Pennsylvania's sudden display of stamina after a week of rest. It is hard to believe that the team was over-trained so early in the season and yet in the light of its remarkable recovery after a week of easy going, that appears to be the logical answer.

Victim of Rebound
Coach Lou Little, of Columbia, becomes the fact that his Lion crew had to face the Pennsylvania eleven when it was rebounding from its Princeton and Yale defeats. The Columbia's suffered the whirlwind of their wrath. And of all the coaches for the Quakers to take it out on—Lou Little, one of their very own and one of the greatest tacticians ever to wear the Red and Blue of Pennsylvania.

Columbia's present position (the Lions apparently are right back where they were when Little went to their rescue four years ago) drives home the point that even a successful coach cannot produce winning teams without material. It is no secret that Columbia's material is light and the squad small, totally inadequate to combat speed and power such as they were called upon to face against Pennsylvania, their first major opponent this season.

Eleventh Year As A. F. Of L. Chief Finds Green In Role Of Peacemaker

By ALEXANDER E. GEORGE

Washington (AP)—Placid President William Green leads the legions of organized labor for the eleventh consecutive year since he stepped into the big shoes of unionism's famed old warrior, the late Samuel Gompers.

Having weathered the most turbulent A. F. of L. convention of his regime, President Green now is trying to foster peace between warring factions and to mobilize the federation's forces for a renewed campaign for a shorter work week and additional legislative safeguards for labor.

The one-time Ohio coal miner, who studied nights for the Baptist ministry, warns industry on the upgrade that "work hours must be progressively shortened to put the unemployed to work and wages increased to keep pace with production and profit gains if business recovery is to stand on a solid foundation."

Two "Battles" Dye

"We are going to fight for a 30-hour work week as we never have fought before," he says.

Also commanding important attention from Mr. Green and his colleagues of labor's high command is the federation's mandate to the executive council to draft a proposed amendment to the constitution of the United States giving congress power to enact economic and social security legislation and to fix minimum labor standards as was provided by NIRA.

While labor leaders describe this action as economic rather than political, it is considered virtually certain to have an important bearing on the 1936 fight between "new deal" advocates and opponents.

Industrial vs. Craft Unions

Long rated a capable conciliator, President Green was unable to prevent a sharp division among federation members on the vital issue of industrial versus craft unionism breaking out into furious battle at the recent convention. While the old craft unions won by a two to one plurality, the "progressives" in the federation who showed increasing strength have not abandoned their struggle for establishment of all-inclusive industrial unions in mass production industries.

William Green, usually placid chief of organized labor, does have moments when he "opens up" as is evidenced by the inset. But his eleventh year as A. F. of L. president, which he now is starting, finds him mostly concerned with pacifying warring factions in the organization.

The conservative Green retained the presidency, however, without a sign of opposition to his re-election; the federation still holds to its traditional policy of opposing the formation of a labor party and has incorporated in its constitution a new amendment designed to combat communist "boring from within."

As Green prepares for another struggle on the legislative front, a new cloud rises on labor's horizon. The Pennsylvania Greyhound Bus Lines, Inc., has challenged the constitutionality of the Wagner-Connelly Industrial Disputes Act, enactment of which by congress was hailed as the federation's biggest victory of the year.

The WORLD OF STAMPS

By QUINTON JAMES

Jugoslavia's boy king, Peter II, who came on the throne at the assassination of his father, Alexander, appears in all of his youthful seriousness on a regular issue of the stamps of that country for the first time since he took over the royal reins.

However, it is not the formal introduction of the young ruler to philately, for as the crown prince his portrait was used for the 1933 two-stamp issue in connection with the sixth anniversary of the National Sokols, or sports associations.

The new issue, apparently delayed during the time that the King Alexander mourning set was in use, is of comparatively simple design, with the boy's head within a circle against a solid border that is unbroken except for the inscription in open-faced lettering. The morning set was made up by enclosing the regular 1931-34 stamps bearing Alexander's picture within a black border extending into the perforations.

The stamps are somewhat smaller in size than the previous Yugoslav general postage, being a slight edge under the dimensions of the current U. S. 3-cent. The six values include 50-para orange, 75-p blue green, 1.50-dinar red, 1.75-d deep carmine and 3.50-d blue.

Postage Due Change
Another change in the style of the postage due stamps of Canada is going into effect. Instead of the former horizontal design, the new stamps are upright with a complete new layout.

The phrase "postage due" appears in larger letters than heretofore, while "Canada" has been transferred from the bottom to the top of the stamp. The amount of scroll work in the border has been reduced, with the familiar maple leaves incorporated in the design of a postage due for the first time. There is one in either of the upper two corners. As usual, the French inscription, "A Percevoir," is part of the drawing.

So far only two values have been received, a 2-cent and a 4-cent. The dark violet coloring is continued.
